

The 16th Congress

In the Senate

The 16th Congress will open on 22 July, the same day that President Benigno Aquino III delivers his fourth State-of-the-Nation Address (SONA). The Senate will likely have a complete roster for the first time since the 12th Congress. It may be recalled that during the 2001 elections, 13 senators were elected, with the last placer serving the unfinished term of Sen. Teofisto Guingona who was then appointed as vice president. The chamber had a full roll of 24 senators for only a year, due to the appointment of Sen. Blas Ople as Foreign Affairs Secretary on 23 July 2002, and due to the passing of Sen. Renato Cayetano on 25 June 2003. The 11th, 13th, 14th, and 15th Congresses did not have full membership, primarily because a senator did not complete the six-year term due to being elected to another post.¹

In the 2013 midterm elections last May, all of the six senators seeking re-election made it to the top 12, while two were members of the House of Representatives in the 15th Congress. The twelve senators-elect are:

	SENATOR	PARTY	PREVIOUS POSITION

2.	AQUINO, Paolo Benigno IV A.	LP	Former chairperson, National Youth Commission
3.	BINAY-ANGELES, Nancy S.	UNA

9.	PIMENTEL, Aquilino Martin III D.	PDP-Laban	Outgoing senator
10.	POE-LLAMANZARES, Mary Grace	Independent	Former chairperson MTRCB
11.	TRILLANES, Antonio IV F.	NP	Outgoing senator
12.	VILLAR, Cynthia A.	NP	Former representative (Las Piñas City, lone)

¹The 11th Congress had 22 senators as Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo, whose term ran until 2001, was elected Vice President in 1998, while Marcelo Fernan died on 11 July 1999. The 13th Congress had 23 senators as Noli de Castro, whose term ran until 2007, was elected Vice President in 2004. The 14th Congress had 23 senators as Alfredo Lim, whose term ran until 2010, was elected mayor of Manila in 2007. The 15th Congress had 23 senators as Benigno Aquino III, whose term ran until 2013, was elected President of the Republic in 2010.

Completing the roll are the other twelve senators whose terms run until 2016:

SENATOR	PARTY	TERM	16th Congress Senate (by party affiliation)
1. CAYETANO, Pilar Juliana S.	NP	2	NP	5
2. DEFENSOR-SANTIAGO, Miriam P.	PRP	2	LP	4
3. DRILON, Franklin M.	LP	1	UNA	3
4. EJERCITO-ESTRADA, Jinggoy	PMP	2	LAKAS	2
5. ENRILE, Juan Ponce	PMP	2	NPC	2
6. GUINGONA, Teofisto III D.L.	LP	1	PMP	2
7. LAPID, Manuel M.	LAKAS	2	LDP	1
8. MARCOS, Ferdinand Emmanuel Jr. R.	NP	1	PDP-Laban	1
9. OSMEÑA, Sergio III R.	Independent	1	PRP	1
10. RECTO, Ralph G.	LP	1	Independent	3
11. REVILLA, Ramon Jr. B.	LAKAS	2
12. SOTTO, Vicente III C.	NPC	1

There is still no absolute majority for the political parties just like in the previous Congress except for very minor differences. The Nacionalista Party (NP) has the most number of members in the Senate with five, followed by the Liberal Party (LP) with four. NP gained one more seat, while LAKAS lost one. The number of independent senators went down to three from a high of five during the 15th Congress.

Meanwhile, the 16th Congress will have the most number of female senators with six, twice the number in the preceding Congress. The most number of lady legislators in the Senate was during the 6th Congress with five.²

By age, the new mean is slightly lower at 53 compared to 55 in the previous Congress. Discounting one senator who will be turning 90 next year, the average age of the Senate in the 16th Congress will further go down to 51.

In the House

The House of Representatives will also have its largest possible contingent so far at 292, where 234 are district representatives and 58 are party list representatives.³ Of the 234 district representatives, 92 are first-termers, while the remaining 142 constitute re-electionists from the 15th Congress. There were a total of 161 House members from the 15th Congress who vied for re-election.

Meanwhile, of the 43 legislators who ran for other posts, 21 won and 22 lost.

The first-term lawmakers however, cannot really be considered as neophytes, since 50 are currently occupying other elective posts, and 21 are former officials making a comeback.

²From 1968-1969. Magnolia Antonino, Eva Estrada Kalaw, Maria Kalaw Katigbak, and Tecla San Andres Ziga were elected in 1966 to serve until 1969, while Helena Benitez was senator from 1968 to 1973.

³The Supreme Court, however, is yet to finally resolve the petition filed by party-list groups that were disqualified by COMELEC and the High Court's TRO on the proclamation of the groups that will fill-up the five remaining party-list seats.

Moreover, 40, or about 43% of the first-termers, are relatives of the outgoing members. Of the 52 who fielded their relatives in the congressional race, 12 lost.

The Liberals are the biggest gainers in the House, with 110 seats, up from 92 in the 15th Congress. LAKAS, meanwhile, lost the most seats, down to 14 from 21. NPC also gained two seats, and LDP had an additional one seat. NP, NUP and UNA, meanwhile, each lost some members.

The House of Representatives in the 16th Congress will also have the most number of female representatives, counting at least 76 solons or 26% of the total House membership. This includes 12 lady legislators based on the list of nominees from the 38 party-list groups proclaimed by the COMELEC, which so far garnered 53 of the 58 seats allocated for party-list representation. This is in contrast to the 66 female members of the House in the 15th Congress, 38 in 13th Congress and 54 in the 14th Congress.

⁴Reps. Erico Aumentado (Bohol, 2nd district) and Pedro Romualdo (Camiguin, lone district) originally ran for re-election but died on 25 December 2012 and 24 April 2013, respectively. Their relatives, incoming Reps. Erico Aristotle Aumentado (son) and Xavier Jesus Romualdo (grandson) will be assuming their posts. Rep. Ma. Rachel Arenas (Pangasinan, 3rd district) also ran for re-election but was earlier substituted by her mother, incoming Rep. Rosemarie Arenas.
